

Malware

A 'malware' alert is a notification generated by a security system when it detects malicious software or code that has infiltrated a device or network, posing a potential threat to security.

