

Large Upload

A 'large upload' alert is a notification generated by a security system when it detects an exceptionally high volume of data being uploaded from a device or user account to an external destination.

